

Transform Labeling and Packaging with Next-Generation Automated Services from Syntel

Life Sciences companies face many challenges delivering product labels tailored to every global market where they compete. Successful labeling requires compliance with a diverse set of ever-changing global and local regulatory standards, country-specific translations, and strict attention to compliance and consistency throughout the value chain.

With years of experience working with leading life sciences companies to meet their labeling challenges, Syntel brings an integrated managed services model and process automation approach to deliver end-to-end labeling and packaging projects.

Syntel's Labeling Services

Syntel's innovative LPaaS (Labeling and Packaging-as-a-Service) makes your processes more agile, enhances operational efficiency, optimizes cost and saves time, adding value to your business.
