

SynTrack: Syntel's Counterfeit Management Brand Protection and Proliferation Solution

Counterfeit products and intellectual property theft end up hurting both consumers and brand owners. False product labeling, fake or inferior quality materials and components, or inappropriate use trademarks are just a few examples of such damaging business practices. Syntel's SynTrack is a comprehensive counterfeit management solution that helps retailers and manufacturers protect and grow their brands.

Syntel's Overview

SynTrack employs a combination of smart sensors like RFID, printed non-volatile memory, and a powerful platform that easily integrates with your supply chain to creatively, intelligently, and cost-effectively solve your brand protection challenges. The SynTrack platform captures and manages the data coming from digital identities embedded within products and brands throughout your supply chain, and authenticates these products to ensure they are the genuine item.

In addition, this smart product authentication solution enables your inspection teams to directly verify merchandise, as well as to use the real-time data created by consumer-product interactions to effectively "crowdsource" brand protection — enabling consumers to verify that the product is legitimate (and letting the manufacturer know if it's not).

How it Works

Why Choose SynTrack?

- Reduce risk of counterfeiting, ensure end-to-end authenticity, safeguard intellectual property, and protect your brand value
- Employs the comprehensive, proven, flexible Connect One IoT platform to host anti-counterfeiting solutions
- Built-in analytical engine enables continuous monitoring to develop strategic insights into patterns, tendencies, and counterfeit detection
- Open architecture for easy integration with existing SCM, inventory management and other systems
